Sid the Squid was cold as he slept. “I must go on a quest and get a quilt for my bed,” Sid told himself.

Sid went on his quest to get the best quilt for his bed. Sid spotted a shell. He slid it on top of himself.

“This shell is not soft. It is not a quilt for me.” Sid kept hunting.

Sid spotted a clam but when he went up to it, the clam shut.

“I think that clam has an animal in it. It can not be a quilt for me.”

“I quit! I can not spot a quilt for my bed.” Sid felt sad. He swam to a bench and sat on it.

“I think I will just be cold.” Calvin the crab spotted Sid and went and sat on the bench with him.

“I can tell that you are sad,” Calvin told Sid. “Can I help you?” Sid told Calvin that he was cold when he slept and was on the hunt for a quilt.

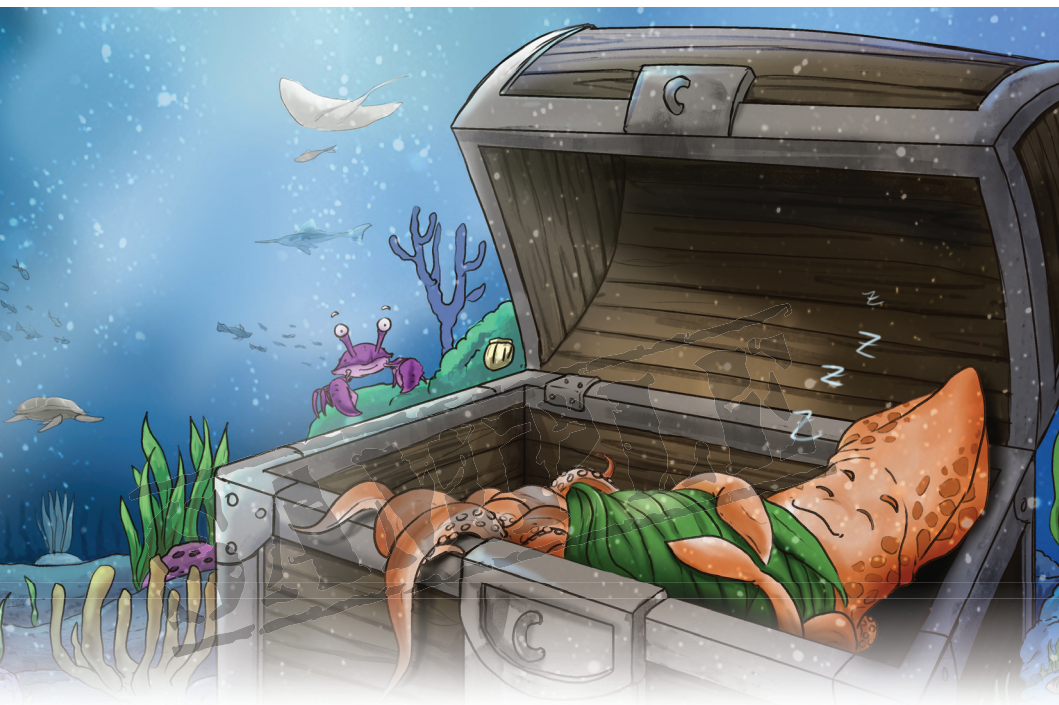

Just then, Calvin the crab spotted a forest with kelp.

“Kelp! Kelp is soft and I can snip a bit for you,” Calvin told Sid.

“Yes. I can bring a bit of kelp back to my bed for my quilt,” Sid was yelling as he swam with Calvin to the kelp.

Sid was not cold. He had the kelp on him as his quilt. Kelp is the best quilt for Sid the Squid.

Did you understand what you read?

1. Why did Sid want a quilt?
2. Why wasn't a shell a good quilt for Sid?
3. Who helped Sid find a quilt?
4. What did Sid finally use as a quilt?
